METAL STAMPING

Metal stamping is an efficient process for producing precision sheet metal components used in electronic & mechanical assemblies.

- Precision stamped metal parts
- Mounting brackets & structural components
- Electrical contact components
- Custom sheet metal assemblies
- High-volume stamped metal production

Stamping allows complex metal shapes with speed & consistency.

METAL CASTING

Casting processes allow metal components to be formed into complex shapes that require strength & durability.

- Aluminum cast components
- Custom metal housings & parts
- Structural mechanical components
- Precision casting for industrial applications
- Durable metal parts for demanding environments

Casting is ideal for strength, dimensional stability, & complex geometry.

ALUMINUM EXTRUSION

Extrusion allows metal to be formed into continuous profiles used in various structural & thermal management applications.

- Aluminum extrusion profiles
- Heat sink components
- Structural aluminum parts
- Custom extrusion shapes
- Lighting and enclosure components

Extruded aluminum parts provide lightweight strength & excellent thermal performance.
